HOW WE ARRIVE AT TOP WORKPLACES RANKINGS

55,000-plus employees in metro area join survey

For the eighth year, The Atlanta Journal-Constitution and Energage (formerly WorkplaceDynamics) have partnered to determine the Atlanta area's Top Workplaces.

More than 2,300 companies were nominated or asked to participate in the 2018 rankings after metro area employees responded to print and online solicitations that began appearing in September.

Energage, a Philadelphia-based employee research and consulting firm, then surveyed 256 metro companies that agreed to participate in the no-cost program. More than 55,000 metro workers participated in the survey.

Any public, private, nonprofit or governmental employer with a minimum of 50 employees in metro Atlanta was eligible.

The top 150 list includes:

■ 25 large companies (500 or more employees)

■ 50 midsize companies (150-499 employees)

■ 75 small companies (149 or fewer employees)

Thirty-two companies were chosen as Workplace Achievers. The survey gathers responses on 24 factors covering seven areas, including organizational health factors that measure how well employees are working together toward a common cause. In addition, the survey asks employees about employee engagement, company leadership and the basics (pay, benefits, flexibility, training and expectations).

Employers are ranked among groups of similar size, and those that score high enough are recognized as Top Workplaces. In addition, special award winners received standout scores on specific survey areas.

A response rate of at least 35 percent of a company's employees based in metro Atlanta was required. In addition, employers with 85 or fewer metro Atlanta workers had to have at least 30 responders. Energage also ran statistical tests to identify questionable results and disqualify any employers.

INSIDE

Top Large Workplace: Service and teamwork are hallmarks of Alston & Bird from an employee perspective. The firm operates under the guiding principles of collegiality, loyalty, diversity, individual satisfaction, fairness and professional development. The company, which has been in the top five every year since 2011, claims the top spot this year. Page 6

Top Medium Workplace: On Sunday nights, SalesLoft CEO Kyle Porter emails employees an update on company accomplishments, product releases, and even inspirational quotes. On Fridays top leaders hold a companywide meeting to let employees ask questions. The rhythm of those steps is not surprising for Atlanta-based SalesLoft, considering what Porter hopes the sales engagement software it designs can do for its customers. Page 12

Top Small Workplace: Supreme Lending - Southeast Region is the top-ranked small company for the second year in a row. That doesn't mean it's resting on its accomplishments. The mortgage broker moved last year into an expanded operations center and sales branch in Alpharetta with features such as a larger break room, meeting area and state-of-the-art video studio. Page 25

ine and share a common goal in how we want to do business. I love the people I work with, day in and day out.

I work at home and have the flexibility to adjust my hours to fit daily priorities. I continue to learn new things and am encouraged to seek out continuing education opportunities.

It is not a job to me. Love what you do and never work another day in your life!

It pushes me to do my best every day! Not only in my work space, but also in my personal life. We have amazing leadership here, as well as great people that we work around. Grateful to be a part of this organization.

Supreme makes the mortgage business easy and stress free. The level of service provided to our clients is the best in the business, and I have worked for several lenders (big and small) over the years. Upper level management truly understands the mortgage industry and what it takes to be the best. I feel very fortunate to have recently joined Supreme and enjoy going to work each day.

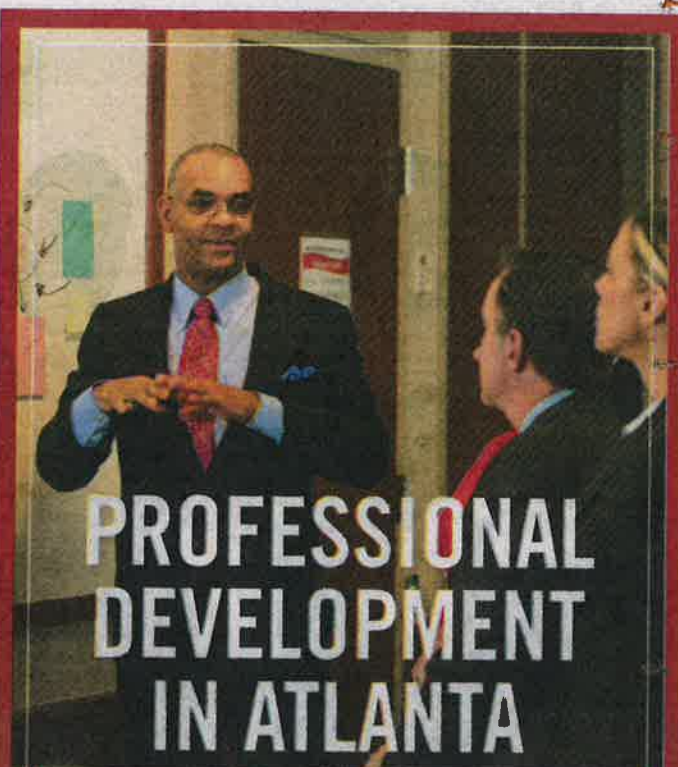

I have worked at other companies that did not have the high moral code that I feel is necessary in the workplace. Our team at Supreme all work together and no one's job is lesser than another's job. The management is always available and helpful, and they respect me as an employee.

The management team genuinely cares about each and every one of us, not just on a professional level, but on a personal level as well. They are encouraging and helps drive us to be the best that we can be.

We are super Supreme! In everything we do, every day and in every way. It is a privilege to work with this group of individuals.

I get to work with people who have become like family to me and provide excellent service to those in need of a home.
